Member of the Vanceburg united Methodist Church. He was employed as a supervisor for the Dravo Corp. Myron's parents were not married until about 10 years after he was born. The story goes that Myron went to school the next day and informed the boys " you can't call me a bastard any more mom and dad got married yesterday."

There was some doubt that he was B.T's son, and no-one is totally sure why it took them so long to get around to marriage. It made Myron tough enough to survive US Marine Corps-South Pacific WWII. He was wounded on two different occasions and fairly well scared up (either wound would have given him a trip home in later wars). After the war he was a construction foreman mainly on high dams and power plants all over eastern US.
